Law courses in English - Fall Semester
Histoire Europe (no prerequisite)	Undergraduate academic studies	5 ECTS	24 hours	The legal rules adopted by the European institutions has become a component of our daily life and society. In order to better understand how they affect the EU Member States, it is of crucial importance to know how they are adopted and by which institutions. Furthermore, Law and Politics are closely interconnected. Law can be seen as a means for the fulfillment of certain political interests. In this regard, the political interests of the European Union may sometimes differ from the political interests of the Member States and this is why conflicts may arise. This course aims at showing how the European Union may be defined as a « union of law » and a « union of peoples and states guided by the rule of law », and what are the challenges – both legal and political. A first part will be dedicated to the study of the European political institutions, and a second one to the legal order of the European Union. The objective is not only to acquire a solid knowledge of the European Union Law but also to develop a critical thinking on the functioning and the future of the European Union.
European Union Law: Introduction to EU substantive Law (Basic knowledge of the European Union institutions is a prerequisite to take this class)	Undergraduate academic studies	5 ECTS	24 hours	The legal rules adopted by the European institutions have become an integral part of our daily lives and society. In the EU context, "institutional" law is generally contrasted with "substantive" law. The former concerns the rules governing the EU institutions. To better understand how they affect EU member states, it is essential to know how they are adopted and by which institutions. The second concerns the rules and policies implemented by EU institutions. Knowledge of the EU institutions, their overall organization and functioning are assumed as a prerequisite. The aim of this course is to provide an overview of EU substantive law, in order to clarify the integration strategy pursued by the EU institutions through their actions and policies. Each lesson is devoted to the study of different freedoms. The objective is not only to understand how the internal market works and the logic behind it, but also to develop a critical reading of the integration process and the role of the ECJ.
US Business Law and Business Associations	Master academic studies (M2)	5 ECTS	24 hours	Business associations introduces the students to the main types of business structures in the United States, including Sole Proprietorships, Partnerships and Corporations. We will focus on a variety of issues such as starting up, liability, winding up, and duties of directors. This course will be useful to students who are interested in corporate law or private law.
US Family Law	Master academic studies (M1)	5 ECTS	24 hours	Family law focuses on four main topics: marriage, the dissolution of marriage, child custody and non-marital relationships. As more families in France are becoming multi-national, including many from common law states, it is important to have a grasp of the concepts and legal English concerning things like jurisdiction, alimony, pre-nuptials, equitable distribution and formalities in marriage family law practitioners.
Contemporary Issues of American Law	Undergraduate academic studies	1 ECTS	6 heures	This class focuses on contemporary issues affecting American society. Previous topics discussed have included the Right to Bear Arms, Right to Health Care, Same-sex Marriage, Supreme Court Politics and Celebrated Cases, the Death Penalty, the Electoral College, The Use of Drones on the American Territory and Abroad, and the Legality of Enhanced Interrogation Techniques. Although the class is mostly lecture, there will be an opportunity for the students to debate the issues. The final grade is based on attendance and participation as well as an oral exam on the last day of the class.
The Legislative Process in the United States	Master academic studies (M1)	5 ECTS	24 hours	Aims of the class: This class will attempt to give students a better understanding of the American political system by explaining how laws are written, voted and implemented. The focus will be on the contemporary workings of the United States Congress and its interactions with the other branches of government and the society at large. The format is intended to allow maximum participation by the students through debates, simulations, and discussion of reading material.
Human rights in a regional and global context	Master academic studies (M2)	5 ECTS	24 hours	This is a seminar course designed to introduce and engage students in the dialogue of balancing human rights with other types of rights and the subsequent impact at the national level of internationally "recognized" rights. The course will mainly cover the protection and enforcement of human rights at the international and regional levels through different mechanisms including the UN Charter, treaty-based systems, regional human rights organizations, as well as the role of non-state actors in their enforcement. As a seminar class, students will demonstrate competency through researching and presenting findings in front of their peers and through a paper.

Law courses in English - Spring Semester
Constitutional Comparative Law	Master academic studies (M1)	3 ECTS	16 hours	This course is part of the Master 1 Program in International Relations. International exchange students and UCA students will choose specific topics to work on and will apply concretely the comparative law methodology. At the end of the seminar, they will be able to present a paper or organize a conference on a specific topic.
International Public Law	Undergraduate academic studies	5 ECTS	24 hours	This course will introduce students to the legal framework and institutions governing actions between states including sources of law; international dispute resolution; States, Recognition and Self-Determination; International Organizations, Non-Governmental Organizations, and Treaty Regimes; the use of force; and an introduction to international arbitration. Students will demonstrate mastery through a final exam.
Law of Succession	Master academic studies (M2)	5 ECTS	24 hours	Law of Succession is a course designed to give students an introduction to the protection and distribution of wealth. From probate to trusts, the course will help students understand the primary vehicles for transferring wealth inter vivos, at death and what happens when one fails to plan. This class will also cover issues such as protecting wealth and the rights of beneficiaries. This is a great supplemental course for students studying droit notarial.
Freedom of Speech	Master academic studies (M1)	5 ECTS	24 hours	This course is a great course for public law students who want to have a comparison of important US First Amendment issues such as the Establishment clause, Free Exercise clause, and the Freedom of Speech. Some of the sub-issues include public displays of religious items, school prayer, government aid to religious institutions, Religious Freedom Restoration Act, pornography and obscenity, offensive and indecent speech, fighting and racist speech, and time - manner - place restrictions.
Post Soviet Studies	Master academic studies (M2)	5 ECTS	24 hours	The course focuses on Russia, as the successor state to the Soviet Union. But by analyzing Russia, it intends to analyze the Post-Soviet space and therefore Russia's relationship with the other former Soviet States. The goal is not to study the Russian culture or language or history, but to have a closer look at Russia from within and on the world stage. Law and International Relations perspectives will be taken into account in order to analyze Russia's foreign policy. By the end of the semester, you will: - be able to describe Russia's political system - understand past and contemporary challenges of Russia's foreign policy - be prepared for independent, critical study and assessment of post-soviet geopolitics;
Contemporary Issues of American Law	Undergraduate academic studies	1 ECTS	6 heures	This class focuses on contemporary issues affecting American society. Previous topics discussed have included the Right to Bear Arms, Right to Health Care, Same-sex Marriage, Supreme Court Politics and Celebrated Cases, the Death Penalty, the Electoral College, The Use of Drones on the American Territory and Abroad, and the Legality of Enhanced Interrogation Techniques. Although the class is mostly lecture, there will be an opportunity for the students to debate the issues. The final grade is based on attendance and participation as well as an oral exam on the last day of the class.
International Contractual Law	Master academic studies (M1)	5 ECTS	24 hours	This course discusses contract law for cross-border agreements and explores the legal frameworks that govern international business transactions. It will focus on understanding the legal aspects of international trade, including the formation, performance, and enforcement of contracts. You will learn about the fundamental principles of contract law, including offer and acceptance, performance, and breach of contract. We will use the United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods (CISG), UNIDROIT's Principles of International Commercial Contracts (PICC), and the Principles of European Contract Law (PECL). The course will feature case studies and real-world examples to help you understand the practical applications of international contract law. These examples will help us understand dispute resolution in international contract disputes as well as the impact of jurisdiction and applicable law - determining the proper forum and law for international contracts. By the end of this course, you will have a solid foundation in international contract law and be able to navigate the complex legal landscape of global business with confidence. Whether you are a business owner, a lawyer, or simply interested in international trade, this course will provide you with valuable insights and skills that will help you succeed in the global marketplace
